COLLEGE SUITS FOR YOUNG MEN

Scores and scores piled upon our tables for young Peorians—15 to 20 years young.

Not a Suit but has come fresh from the makers this season. Our salesmen remark that young men are coming here in increasing numbers. We make a fad as well as a service of the preparation and providing of Young Men's Clothing, while many stores treat young men's needs indifferently or decline to handle it. A new feature this season is the insertion in the front of vests of a white vestee or dinkey—a narrow line within the opening. It seems to have struck the popular fancy.

The same excellent making and painstaking handcraft in collars, shoulders and lapels of Young Men's Suits, as in regular men's clothing, stand for style and permanent satisfaction.

Light or tropical weights, $10 to $20.

"Prince Otto" a Huge Success

Plays to Big House

The Athletic Benefit play for the year which was given at the Grand opera house, Friday, May 10th, was one of the most successful productions Bradley has ever given. The institute was fortunate in procuring an especially fine play, Otis Skinner's dramatization of Stevenson's "Prince Otto."

The greatest amount of credit is due to Mr. Wallace who chose the play, obtained the manusrcipt, brought down the scenery from Chicago, chose the cast and then coached it in such a way that it was able to produce a very difficult play in a very praise-worthy manner.

When the curtain went up at 8:15, the house was well fiiled and everybody was waiting eagerly for the play to begin. Those who had been working and advertising the play and make it a success, those who had seen it advertised and the students who the week before, had stood in the long line to buy tickets.

Lester Byron, as Prince Otto, sustained the care-free temperament of the prince throughout. The way in which he adopted himself to the different situations and rose to meet the climaxes was one of the best features of the work. As instances of this, one need only recall his initial appearance on the stage, the counsil scene, the scene where he is alone with Saxe's diary, and the prison scene.

Marie King as the Princess Seraphina, was the very person for the place. Her stage appearance was splendid. Especially good were her appearances in the first act in the peasant's hut, the fourth act in the state apartment in the Palace, and in the last scene in the peasant's hut.

Olive Radley, as the Countess von Rosen, the intrigue character, was especially enjoyed by the audience. The self-possessed manner in which she played the part of the one who changed the fortunes of hte principal characters, is worthy of comment.

Harold Lynch, as the Baron von Gondremark, had a role entirely different from the hero, but his work was equally well-sustained, and his acting in the last scene, in which he appeared, where the Princess stabs him, was far above amateur grade, and a fitting climax to the part that he played.

"Prince Otto" a Huge Success

Plays to Big House

The Athletic Benefit play for the year which was given at the Grand opera house, Friday, May 10th, was one of the most successful productions Bradley has ever given. The institute was fortunate in procuring an especially fine play, Otis Skinner's dramatization of Stevenson's "Prince Otto."

The greatest amount of credit is due to Mr. Wallace who chose the play, obtained the manusrcipt, brought down the scenery from Chicago, chose the cast and then coached it in such a way that it was able to produce a very difficult play in a very praise-worthy manner.

When the curtain went up at 8:15, the house was well fiiled and everybody was waiting eagerly for the play to begin. Those who had been working and advertising the play and make it a success, those who had seen it advertised and the students who the week before, had stood in the long line to buy tickets.

Lester Byron, as Prince Otto, sustained the care-free temperament of the prince throughout. The way in which he adopted himself to the different situations and rose to meet the climaxes was one of the best features of the work. As instances of this, one need only recall his initial appearance on the stage, the counsil scene, the scene where he is alone with Saxe's diary, and the prison scene.

Marie King as the Princess Seraphina, was the very person for the place. Her stage appearance was splendid. Especially good were her appearances in the first act in the peasant's hut, the fourth act in the state apartment in the Palace, and in the last scene in the peasant's hut.

Olive Radley, as the Countess von Rosen, the intrigue character, was especially enjoyed by the audience. The self-possessed manner in which she played the part of the one who changed the fortunes of hte principal characters, is worthy of comment.

Harold Lynch, as the Baron von Gondremark, had a role entirely different from the hero, but his work was equally well-sustained, and his acting in the last scene, in which he appeared, where the Princess stabs him, was far above amateur grade, and a fitting climax to the part that he played.

Robert Mann, as the nervous, fussy old chancelor, carried his part veyr well, and Ben Beecher deresves special mention for his splendid work in the council and prison scenes. The audience received a pleasant surprise in seeing Edward Cushing drop his usual role and appear as the serious old peasant father. Roy Tyson and Edna Camren by their work in the first and last scenes, helped to make them two of the best scenes of the play.

The two most difficult scenes in the play to present well, were the lawn fete at Lauterheim in Act II and the scene in the council Chamber in Act III. The manner in which they were carried off brings great credit upon the cast and upon Mr. Wallace.

The curtain going up in act II, disclosed a garden scene. In an instant the Princess and her train of lords and ladies appeared upon the stage. They laughed and talked and moved about in a perfectly natural manner. The whole scene lacked the stiffness which is apt to appear in an amateur play. The dimly-lighted garden and the royal evening dress of the characters helped to make this one of the prettiest stage effects of the whole play.

The council scene was another wonderful achievement in getting a number of people together and making them act naturally. It was a very strong and difficult scene, but it was carried through so ably that the forgot that it was an amateur play and was carried away by the excitement of the story. There was a thunder of applause as the curtain went down.

Through the fourth and fifth acts, where the Princess begins to find out the perfidy of von Gondremark and the sound of the peasants storming the palace doors comes to their ears, the excitement of the play grew more intense. Those in the cast rose to meet the ever-increasing demand upon them, and when the curtain fell, everybody wondered that amateurs had done so well.

Perhaps the best thing that can be said of the play is that it went through so smoothly, and was acted so well that it kept the audience interested from start to finish, not interested in the actors but in the play itself. Without doubt it is the best play Bradley has ever given and one of the best amateur plays that has ever been given in Peoria.

All sorts of school-spirit was displayed. The college people occupied the boxes and gave yells from time to time. A crowd of high school students assembled in the lobby and gave a high school yell and with one accord the whole house, from top to bottom broke out into a great Bradley "Locomotive". It was probably the biggest and most spirited Bradley yell ever given and went off of itself without a leader.

Mr. Plant, Mr. Bishop and the business managers are feeling jubilant over the financial success of the play—we cleared $300. But the greater part of us have not yet had time to think of mere money, but are still talking of how splendidly the different members of the cast did their parts, how well everybody looked, and how wonderful it all was.

It was indeed something for Bradley students always to be proud of, and something which they may well discuss with smiling, delighted faces, and sparkling eyes.

Camp Fire

There are two things that every man will always try to do at Bradley, get in the Engineering Club picture, and go to the Engineering Club camp fire. If we said that the Chorus climaxed itself on the third we will have to say that the Engineering anti-climaxed itself on the fourth. But whether climax or anti-climax, there was the Camp Fire and a royal good one, too, replent with entertainment and good fare. This has been a good year of work for the club, and the lectures and excursions have been better attended than lasteary.

Inter-School Series

Up to the time when THE TECH went to press, three games of the inter-school series had been played off. On April 17th, in a twelve-inning contest, the Lower Academy defeated the Higher by a score of 12 to 11. On April 19th, the Horological team took a fall out of the College, knocking them over with a 17 to 5 count, and on May 7th, defeated the Lower Academy. Figuring on percentages, this makes the Horological and the South Paw teams tied for first place.

To the Dog House

'Twill not be long now
Till you'll be passed away.
How oft we've smelled the pleasant smells,
As we passed by your way!
You ne'er could boast of much but a roof,
A floor, and a couple of walls,
But we'll all give a cheer and let fall a tear.
When the faithful old dog-house falls.

We're All From Missouri

Well Hayward was on a journey bent,
'Twas just to visit Barrett,
But the Faculty knew not where he'd went
And fain would know his whereat.
So on his return they questioned him
And bade him speak in a hurry;
Prof. Crerie was the chiefest one,
Say Jim, "I'm from Missouri."
Then Crerie says in the ballot box,
"Hayward can't play ball."
And they took his suit and base ball sox;
And he had to swallow it all.
Prof. Crerie quite often in Chapel reads
Till all the folks feel sure he
Is a gentleman and a man of deeds,
But Jim, who's "from Missouri."

THE TECH does not believe in "the good old days," but if any of the future generations are going to be so forgetful of their own merits, as they undoubtedly will, as to look back longingly after some 20 to 0 score, to the good" old days when——," why we believe that the present season is entitled to a front seat, and so to help the cause along a little we dedicate this number to Spring Athletics, and we want you to just tuck it away when you have it read and some day when you and your family are cleaning the attic or the cellar you may happen to run across the old TECH of May, '07. There was a time! We had athletics then. Why, we soaked it all over the High School, Monmouth, or any of them, gave a cracker-jack of a play, and made big money on the season. And if any one disputse your word or statement, just open the old magazine and say: "Here's the dater to prove it."

Big Inter-Scholastic Meet

The third and largest of the high school meets held anunally on the Bradley Campus was pulled off on Saturday, April 27th. There were twelve schools represented and sixty-eight entries, all told. Chillicothe, surprising itself, captured first honors with a total of twenty-one points. Lacon, chiefly by the good work of Splaine who has been here on previous occasions, took second place, with Galesburg and Delavan tying for third. Bradley A. had but two men entered and Plowe succeeded in winning the fifty, but lost out in the 220 on slower than record time. The average time of the events was rather slow although in the jumps and the pole-vault and discus some good records were made. Gates of Galesburg, cleared 5-4 easily without trying higher, and in the broad jump, Sauter, the other Galesburg man, made the good mark of 20-7.

Following is the order of events and the time made:

50 - yard dash — Plowe, Bradley, first; Gates, Galesburg, second; Fillmore, Chillicothe, third; time 4 4-5.

100-yard dash — Splaine, Lacon, first; Gates, Galesburg, second; Fillmore, Chillicothe, third; time 10 4-5.

220-yard dash—Splaine, Lacon, first; Shelton, Elmwood, second, Iliff, Lacon, third; time 24 3-5.

440-yard dash—Ramsey, Chillicothe, first; Iliff, Chillicothe, second; McHenry, Farmington, third; time 56 1-5

880-yard run—Wynd, Pekin, first; Dougherty, Washington, second; Wheateroft, Farmington, third; time 2:19 3-5.

One mile run—Wheateroft, Farmington, first; Dougherty, Washington, second; Ross, Pekin, third; time 5:50 4-5.

220 - yard hurdles — Danforth, Washington, first; Ramsey, Chillicothe, second; Howard, Tremont, third; time 27 3-5.

Running high jump—Gates, Galesburg, first; Splain, Lacon, second; Custer, Chillicothe, third; height 5-4.

Running broad jump — Hauter, Galesburg, first; Fillmore, Chililcothe, second; Harber, Washburn, third; distance 20-7.

Hammer throw—Brawner, Delavan, first; Allen, Delavan, second; Custer, Chillicothe, third; distance 91-2.

Shot put—Barnes, Pekin, first; Davidson, Delavan, second; Daily, Chillicothe, third; distance 37-2.

Discus throw—Davison, Delavan, first; Remmele, Elmwood, second; Conover, Pekin, third; distance 89-9.

Pole vault—Danforth, Washington, first; Harber, Washburn, second, Shepard, Lacon, third; height 9-9.

Chillicothe was awarded five points for the half-mile relay, being the only team to present themselves for the race.

Good-Bye Quorum

It all arose out of trying to turn over a new leaf, which is not, as we remarked before, always such an exceptionally easy task. In this case it seems to have resulted in the annihilation of the whole book. Yes, the Quorum is gone. We did not know how to be a quorum and we didn't all want to be a Literary Society; that is just how it came about. It is argued, however, and justly, that debates between clubs can be managed at better advantage as rivalry between the individual clubs may dictate, than under the auspices of the Quorum. Whether or not parliamentary drill could not have been systematized and carried on better in the Quorum or not, is a question. But it is all over now, and as the poet says: "It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all."

BASE BALL

Bradley Loses First of Season

In the opening game of the season on April 11th, Bradley lost to Illinois college by a score of 10 to 6 in a game rather too full of early season errors to be called a first-class exhibition of ball. Becker, who started the tossing for the locals was somewhat on an off-day and was hit in the first three innings in which he threw for enough hits to net the visitors a pile-up of eight runs. Bennett went on in the fourth and remained a puzzle to the visitors throughout the game, although errors and a few scattered hits netted the visitors two more runs Bradley's chief weakness seemed to be in the outfield where a series of costly passes took place. The visitors presented quite a contrast to their last year's organization, being a quite professional looking bunch and putting up a high-class article of ball. The feature of the game was the batting of Harmon who took five hits out of five times to bat, one of them being a two-bagger and one a three-bagger.

Take One From Eureka

Playing a decidedly improved game in every respect, Bradley took one from Eureka on April 20th, although as the score shows the team had not as yet rounded into the form to be exhibited at later games. The visitors connected with Bennett for twelve safe ones and this coupled with a total of six errors more than entitled the four runs to Eureka. The fact that the hits were scattered though, prevented a bigger score. But after the third inning with two hits, an error, a base on balls and a high fly, gave Bradley a total of six runs, the game was her's and she held it until the last out. The score follows:

If any one cares to descend into the Physics laboratory on a week-day he will find the secretary of the Athletic board over in one corner of the room up to his neck in his barrel of hundred-dollar oil. If you look a little closer you will find what appears to be about three bunches of the coagulated mud down towards the bottom of the barrel but which are really the persons of Cush, Hudson and Schenk, who can be found thus engaged at most any time of the day. The doctor himself enjoys it, especially when the apparatus is turned on. Then the room lights up with the incandescants, the wheels commence to turn, the barrel rumbles, the oil begins to swirl and member of the board jumps up and down with glee as he feels the liquid swish about his arms; the afore mentioned assistants can't say that they enjoy it. They don't mind the research but they don't like the swimming.

It is queer though that Dr. Bishop can't get the butter; he has churned for six months now, and he surely can't be looking for anything else.

Bradley vs. Hedding College

On April 24th, Bradley played its first game of the season away from home, showing to all its loyal supporters that it was just as good on the enemies field as on the home grounds. Well, they met that famous Schaefer twin battery, that we have all read so mush about, and the way they knocked the ball around the lot was a downright shame.

In the first inning Hedding, by means of a base on balls, two hits and a fielders choice, scored three runs, but this was all, for they secured only one more hit during the entire game, failing to again get in sight of third base. In the fifth inning, Bradley knocked out four singles,and a two-bagger, making five rnus and winning the game, but not yet satisfied they came back in the seventh inning with a three-bagger, two singles and a two-base hit, netting three more runs. Score by innings:

Easy Victory Over Monmouth

Monmouth Gets Two Hits

In the second game of the trip the team made the star hit of the season by defeating Monmouth in a walk-away by a score of 11 to 1. This is the first time that Bradley has defeated Monmouth since the earliest years of our organization. The team was decidedly "on" that day and Monmouth didn't have a look in from start to finish.

In the first McMillan, the founder of Monmouth college succeeded in getting a hit and stealing second, but was nipped at third after two of his mates had gone down before Bennett's fusilade. Bradley started the first with a hit by Fuener who scored on an error and fielder's choice. In the second the Monmouth three went down in succession at the hands of the infield and Picken struck out the three Bradley men up. Monmouth secured her run in the third by a hit, a base on balls and a sacrifice. In the fourth nothing doing but good field work on both sides; but in the fifth the baloon went up for Monmouth and when it dropped it chalked up five runs for Bradley backed by three hits. All was quiet again until the hoodoo seventh when the parachute again ascended chalking five more runs for Bradley backed by four hits. This seemed to settle matters and so the score remained till the end of the game. Bennett's pitching and the record of the infield's work mark the features of the game. Two hits is rather good to look at when you think that Monmouth as usual expected to find the Bradley pitcher and team easy "pickens."

Mr. Webster, on May 3d, was the host to a very small number of friends: Misses Cooper, Jobst, and Richmond; Messrs. Brande and Ottenheimer.

Bradley 14, I. S. N., 3

On Bradley base ball field, May 4th, Illinois Staet Normal discovered that Bradley had a base ball team. Bennett was in the box and allowed only four singles, all of which were scattered and would not have counted for runs, if a few errors had been omitted. Brian for Normal was hit safely eleven times, which coupled with loose fielding gave Bradley fourteen runs. The following tells the tale from Normal's standpoint:

The Chorus Ends Its Season of Work

On Friday evening, May 3d, the Chorus closed the work of the present season with an entertainment given by the members in the Assembly Hall. The program consisted of a series of tableaux representing various composers and musicians of note, accompanied in each case by a short paper on the life and character of the artist represented. Miss Geach read the papers and the following made up as artists: Mr. Frye as Wagner, Mr. Murdock as Von Weber, Miss Ulrich as St. Cecelia Miss Marrs as Jenny Lind, Mr.Causey as Mozart, Mr. Rockwell as Mme. Schumann, Miss Woolner as Patti, Miss McNair as Christine Nilsson and Mr. Currie as Liszet.

The entertainment was certainly most unique and well carried out. After the program refreshments were served in the Domestic Economy rooms and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and marriage ceremonies to the enjoyment of all, though it was to be regretted that Dr. Wyckoff could not attend on account of illness.

Tennis

Manager Byron has secured a good long list for thes spring's touranment for both men and ladies. Although the season has been iate many of the games have not heen played off and those left in the tournament should play their games off as soon as possible as it will be hard to get it all played off before school is out. Mr. Byron is trying to work up a match with either Knox or Eureka.

Bradley vs. Jubilee

The Jubilee game at Gap Hill on Saturday was taken as a kind of a joke by the team, and they did not exert themselves to any extent. Becker was in the box for Bradley and pitched a fine game, giving the opposing batters only seven hits, which he kept scattered well, and by cutting out a little loose fielding, would have shut them out. The noticeable thing this year is that the members of the team are bunching their hits, and the fifth was the lucky inning here, three singles, an error, and 2 two-baggers chasing six runs across the pan. Score by innings:

Bradley	1	0	0	2	6	2	0	0	0	11	11	4
Jubilee	0	1	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	4	7	7

Bradley Defeats Peoria High School

The Bradley Base ball team overwhelmingly defeated Peoria high school in a long and tiresome game at Lake View, May 11th. The story of the defeat is told in stupid fielding, poor pitching on the part of Rozell, and the hitting of the Institute team at opportune times.

In contrast to this, Bradley's infield and outfield worked like clock work. They stole bases and took advantage of every High School misplay in a way that would be a credit even to major leaguers.

High School's downfall came in the first inning, Rozell being unable to locate the plate, walked two men, Conway made a wild throw to first and Mellow hit a pretty single. After three runs were secured, Rozell was pulled out of the box and Conway took his place. He let another run in during that inning and then pitched fairly good ball until the sixth, when a fusilade of hits and errors brought in five runs. Bennett pitched one of his usually fine games, allowing only one infield hit. The only time Peoria High came near the plate was in the eighth inning when Conway tried to come home from second on a ball to short stop, but was caught by Lidle in an accurate throw from first to home plate.

The grand stand was decked out in the colors of the two schools, and resounded with the cheering of the rooters. Only one thing marred the P. H. S. rooters' support, that was in the ninth when they became so disheartened that they took down their colors while their team was still at bat. The following tells the story:

Lincoln is Easy

Lidle Knocks Good Three-Bagger

Lincoln was outclassed, although a good exhibition of ball was put up on both sides, on May 9th. Lidle, who pitched for Bradley, pitched a good game, permitting but four hits and striking out nine men; and Martin, for Lincoln, played an extra good game all around, striking out ten men, and getting himself three of Lincoln's four hits. In the third inning Lidle knocked a clean three-bagger which went a considerable beyond where the fence should bave been. If the fence had been there it could have been good for about twice around. Mellows worked well with the stick as he has during the entire season, securing three good safe ones out of four times to bat. Schenck came next with two hits. The itemized score is as follows:

Bonfire and Lemon Fest

Prof. Van Dusen's charming little summer cottage is no more; about a dozen f a c u l t y and promiscuous speeches are no more; some of Brother Kuhl's firemorks are no more; about three dozen lemons are no more, and all the excitement is no more. But it certainly was worth while. They were about 150 strong and after burning the bonfire they did the town and it is quite a coat of red paint they gave it, too. Marched down the business streets, delivered four orations on the street corners, and ornamented the telegraph wires, etc., with High School's fruit, the lemon. If any one in town on Saturday night did not know that Bradley walked away with High School 11 to 0, it was not the fault of the 150 who took it upon themselves to inform the town.

THE CONVENIENCE

Of Having Everything at Your Finger Tips

The Housewife knows the tedium of extra steps in the kitchen work. She knows how interminably the morning drags out, when there is much cooking to be done.

Let's stop and plan a campaign against long, weary hours—against the annoyance of having to run from table to pantry, and pantry to table.

The general who masses his troops wins the battle against his opponent's scattered forces.

Have you ever stopped to think how much easier, how much less tiresome, how much quicker, the daily routine work of the kitchen could be made, by having the cooking materials and utensils systematically arranged within arm's reach?

We have perfected a plan of convenience for you. We have so arranged a KITCHEN CABINET that practically everything needed for cooking may be reached without moving.

Prices range from $5 to $65.
